

The Unexpected Story by Elliot

Characters: Me (Elliot), Dom, a wounded dragon and Rod, a mean dragon.

Scene location: Home, in the living room

One day I was watching TV and a wounded dragon suddenly crashed through the living room window. I was shocked, confused and a little bit scared. I did not know why or how a dragon would just crash into my living room. Seeing that the dragon was wounded, I went to get the medical supplies in the bathroom. I thought the dragon might need plasters and bandages. I then went to help the dragon. I talked to the dragon and asked what was happening, his name was Dom and he explained that Rod, a mean dragon was so mad at him because he had accidentally damaged one of his favourite books. So Rod had attacked him by breathing fire on him and he had tripped and fallen from the treehouse next to my garden, then he had crashed through my window.

Then, as we were talking, the mean dragon swooped into my living room through the hole where the window was. He had an angry and frustrated look on his face. He tried to attack Dom again by scratching him. I saw what was coming and quickly grabbed my toy shield and sword that were still lying on the floor from when I had played earlier. I was able to rescue Dom and help him move away to get to safety in the bathroom. Then I went back to fight away Rod, the mean dragon. He started running away from me, destroying the furniture and smashing the plates on the table. I was angry because he was destroying everything and making a mess and I would have to tidy up before my mum gets home. I asked him why he was in my house. He replied with an outrageous voice: "Dom damaged my favourite book in the world and no I am so ANGRY at him!"

I felt sad for Rod because I love books too and I would feel outraged if someone damaged my books. I asked him to please stop trying to hurt Dom, the wounded dragon, because I didn't want anybody to get hurt again. I told him to be much nicer and chill, and I gave him my copy of his favourite book to make him happy.

Rod felt joyful from the gift and said: "Thank you"

I went back to the bathroom and told Dom to come out and speak to Rod. Dom apologised and so did Rod. This unexpected day ended with Rod gliding away to his home with his new book and Dom following him to go and live with him. I had to clean up the whole house and fix everything up before mum and dad came home.
